Program fees

Each program may be offered through one or more pricing models. The availability of pricing models is defined per program below. The additional credits fee in the program-based pricing model applies only beyond the minimum required credits or regular program duration. The following fees are charged in the respective campus currency.

You commit to a full program, and pay in full or in installments. Larger programs offer higher value overall.

credit-based pricing model:

You commit only to the credits you attempt, and pay when you attempt them. This pricing model offers more flexibility but ultimately results in a higher total cost than in the program-based model.

The program fees in the MMXXVI.01 fee schedule apply to all new students who submit their application on or after June 3, 2026. They also apply to all new students whose starting date is on or after October 1, 2026 if they submitted their application before June 3, 2026. The program fees in a previous fee schedule may apply only to new students who submitted their application before June 3, 2026 and whose starting date is before October 1, 2026. The other fees in this fee schedule apply regardless of a student's application date or starting date and may be changed without prior notice. Previous fee schedules are available to students where applicable. This fee schedule forms part of and needs to be read in conjunction with our Financial Policies, which also include the fee and payment policies, financial support, and the Terms and Conditions, as published on our website at <https://www.uibs.org/public-policies/financial-policies>. All fees remain in effect until an update is published. Fees are shown in the stated currency and represent the total amount payable by private individuals, inclusive of any applicable VAT, consumption tax, or equivalent indirect tax; no additional tax is added. Our study programs and related services are exempt from such taxes in every jurisdiction where we operate, with the exception of Japan (Campus Tokyo), where the applicable Japanese consumption tax is included within the displayed fee. For business customers and other non-consumer recipients, different tax rules may apply depending on the specific service, the recipient's location, and the applicable tax regime; the applicable treatment will be confirmed on the relevant invoice.
